KNOWLEDGE

Bring comfort and improvement and health to personal enjoyment when rightly used. The many who live better than others and enjoy life more, with less expenditure, by more promptly adapting the world's best products to the needs of physical being, will attest the value to health of the pure liquid laxative principles embraced in the ready, syrup of Figs.

Its excellence is due to its presenting in the form most acceptable and pleasant to the taste, the refreshing and truly beneficial properties of a perfect laxative, effectually cleansing the system, dispelling cold humors, and promoting a permanent curbing constipation. It has given satisfaction to millions and met with the approval of the medical profession, because it acts on the kidneys, liver and bowels without weakening them and it is perfectly free from any objectionable substance.

Syrup of Figs is for sale by all druggists in 50c and $1 bottles, but it is manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co., only, whose name is printed on every package, also the name, Syrup of Figs, and being well informed, you will not accept any substitute if offered.

ROUGH SAILING.

The Followers of Christ's Tempestuous Voyage Through Life.

Storms That Threaten Death and Disaster to the Soul. When Christ is Aboard the Ship—sermons by Rev. T. DeWitt Talmage, D.D.

In his sermon Sunday Dec. 18, Talmage discoursed on a dramatic incident during the Saviour's life among the Galilean fishermen and draws from it a striking lesson for the men and women of the present day. The subject was "Rough Sailing," and the text, Mark iv, 35-41. "And there were also with him other little ships, and there arose a great storm of wind."

Tiberias, Galilee and Genesareth were three names for the same lake. It lay in a scene of great luxuriance. The surrounding hills, high, terraced, sloping, gorged, were so many hanging gardens of beauty. The streams run down through rocks of granite and red limestone, and flashing from the hillsides, bounded to the sea. In the time of our Lord the valleys, the hill-sides and the shores were covered with vegetation, and so great was the variety of climate, that the palm tree of the torrid and the walnut tree of the temperate climate were only a little way apart. Men in vineyards and olive gardens were all pressing up the riches for the fall press. The hills and valleys were state and crisscrossed with flowers, from which Christ took His text, and the disciples learned lessons of patience and trust. As if God had dashed a wave of beauty on all the scene until it hung dripping from the rocks, the hills, the clearness, on the back of the Lebanon range, the clouds of the earth were carried up as if set in range with the hills of Heaven.

No other son ever had so exquisite a setting as if God had dashed a wave of beauty on all the scene until it hung dripping from the rocks, the hills, the clearness, on the back of the Lebanon range, the clouds of the earth were carried up as if set in range with the hills of Heaven.

No other son ever had so exquisite a setting as if God had dashed a wave of beauty on all the scene until it hung dripping from the rocks, the hills, the clearness, on the back of the Lebanon range, the clouds of the earth were carried up as if set in range with the hills of Heaven.

Highest of all in Leavening Power.—Latest U.S. Gov't Report

Baking Powder
ABSOLUTELY PURE

Whenever you start, be sure to put in the highest quality of leavening power. There are men largely prospered. The seeds of a small enterprise grow into an accumulated and overwhelming success. Their rap of prosperity is running over. Every day a commercial or mechanical triumph. Yet they are not puffed up. They acknowledge the God who grows the harvest and gives them all their prosperity. When disaster comes that destroys others they are only helped into higher experiences. The coldest winds that ever blow down from the capitol, when they breakers boom all is well, Christ is in the ship. Here are other men, the prey of uncertainty. When they succeed they start through the world in great vanity, and wipe their feet on the sensitiveness of others. Disaster comes, and they are utterly down. They are good sailors on a fair day, but the sky is clear and the sea is smooth, but they can not outdrive a storm. After awhile the vessel is tossed and wrecked. The crew of the earthly must go down with all the cargo. Push out from the shore with lifeboat, launch, shallop and pinnace. You are out. The storm winds are howling. The waves are thick and billowing, tempting innumerable nets and affording a livelihood for great populations. The clouds are dark and threatening. The sea is rough and the wind is howling. The waves are thick and billowing, tempting innumerable nets and affording a livelihood for great populations.

No other son ever had so exquisite a setting as if God had dashed a wave of beauty on all the scene until it hung dripping from the rocks, the hills, the clearness, on the back of the Lebanon range, the clouds of the earth were carried up as if set in range with the hills of Heaven.

Democracy, read the address of county Chairman Bates.

HARRIS and Bradley continue to discuss each other at long range.

THOMAS has accepted a call to the First Presbyterian church of Washington City.

REEDER advances in the price of wheat, last week, indicate advancing prosperity.

Governor McCleary continues to make telling-sound money speeches in Western Kentucky.

FRANKFORT is doing a little good work, having sent out to the Penitentiary for life for killing Keller.

DAVISON, South Dakota, had two inches of snow Friday, while Kentucky had about half an inch of rain.

MISS GOSSETT VANDERBILT will soon become the Duchess of Marlborough, and nobody will care a kink if she does.

The Democrats of Lexington did the proper thing when they elected Judge J. R. Morton president of their club.

LEXINGTON must be sensational, and now that politics has grown a little more serious they have gone to hanging people.

A BEATLE at Chattanooga, last week, was a company of six Confederates dressed in their old uniforms, taking part in the procession.

JOHN L. MOORE, Bourbon county, mortgaged his farm for $25,000 and left for parts remote with his pockets full and his creditors pocket-empty.

E. F. FLEMING, of the French-English land, has been indicted in Broadbent county for the murder of Judge Josiah Combs, but as usual he will find some way out of it.

Governor BLACKNER has torn his shirt right up and down the back most modestly by his attack on McCleary and Blackburn, and that was the end of it. It is time for him to repair to Glen Lily for the winter.

SENATOR PETER was at Chattanooga last week and went on top of Lookout Mountain where the wind blew through his whiskers and caused him to be posted from his seat in the incline-plan car cutting his head severely.

Col. JOHN K. PROCTOR, Chairman Civil Service Commission, Charles Johnson, Chief of Bureau of Engraving, and Catholic private Secretary, Van Selsdonk, are notable Washington exiles, but nobody has heard of Governor's riding a wheel.

WILLIS is recalled that McCleary carried two counties adjoining Buckner's home county where the latter was yet a candidate for United States Senator, no great effort will be necessary to understand why the hero of Fort Donelson sneaks disparagingly of Governor Jones's candidacy.

The most profound piece of idiocy that has been perpetrated anywhere in the State this season was the refusal by the Hon. Rolla K. Hart, of Flemingsburg, to introduce Governor McCleary to the audience, because he doesn't agree with the Governor on finances.

ANOTHER HANGING.

This time Lexington is having a legal hanging. The negro Henry Smith, who assaulted Mrs. Mary Hudson last month, will be hanged next month, provided the Court of Appeals doesn't interfere. The jury was out only six minutes. Another negro is under sentence of death at Lexington for murder.

STILL RIGHT.

The Governor of Vermont said in his Chattanooga speech, last week, that the South thought she was right during the war, but now she saw differently and would have to teach her children that she was wrong. The Governor of Tennessee gave him to understand that he got only thought during the war that the South was right, but thinks so now, and will so teach his children. The Governor of Tennessee has in my opinion quarters in his belief. That same old question of States Rights is yet alive.

LIKES THE GYNDON.

Rev. W. P. Harvey writes in the Western Recorder, Louisville, Ky., recently:

While at Richmond, Ky., recently we stopped at the new and elegant Hotel Gyndon. The proprietor, F. Corbell, learned that Miss Mary Hollingsworth was a member of the Baptist Orphan Home, Louisville, and he made no charge. He told us that the hotel was conducted on high-toned moral principles—no bar or pool room attachment. The hotel without such appendages is a success and a great credit to Richmond. We also learned that hotels with bar room and pool room attachments at Winchester, Nicholasville, Mt. Sterling and Versailles had made assignments. The moral is plain.

FORTY-TWO MOTORCYCLES IN PREPARATION FOR THE CONTEST, WHICH ATTRACTS WORLD-WIDE ATTENTION.

Forty-two motorcycles have been entered in the Times-Herald road race of Nov. 2. There is every reason to believe that the event will exceed in scientific interest and in the great Paris races, which attracted the attention of the world.

The Chicago-Waukegan race will be witnessed by the foremost engineers and inventors of England, France and Germany, some of whom are now in Chicago for the express purpose of watching the development of the American motorcycle. Had the been a contest on which peaks were sold the original odds would have been three to one against an American motorcycle taking the first prize in competition with the French and German vehicles. Today the odds would favor the American machine, and the prediction is freely made that the last products of the French makers will be excelled by the recently invented and developed American motorcycle. The results of the race may disprove this assertion, but it may be stated as a fact that never in the history of invention has as rapid progress been made along a given line.

When the Times-Herald made its offer of $5,000 in prizes for a horseless carriage contest 95 per cent. of the American people did not know there was such a thing in existence. Some of the technical and scientific papers had published brief accounts of what was being done in France and Germany, but the reading public was ignorant of the horseless carriage or motorcycle. There were probably half a dozen such vehicles in the United States. In less than three months American inventors and manufacturers have practically solved a new and strange problem.

It is safe to say that not less than 100 different types of motorcycles are now in process of construction in cities scattered over the United States. That all of them will compete in the Times-Herald contest, by reason of the fact that some will not have time in which to perfect their vehicle and submit it to practical tests, is not likely.

In order to win these American motorcycles will have to exceed the best products of France and Germany. The Daimler motor, which won most of the prizes in the Paris-Bordeaux race, and the Benz motor, the leading motorcycle power of the Times-Herald contest of Nov. 2. They will be driven by expert, expert motorists, who are confident that the results of the Paris-Bordeaux race will be repeated in this instance.

Those who intend to compete in the Times-Herald motorcycle contest of Nov. 2 are again notified that the time for receiving entries expires on Monday, Sept. 15. No special form of entry blank has been prepared, it is simply being necessary to address to the editor of the motorcycle contest, room 511, Times-Herald Building, a formal notification that a vehicle will be entered for competition. It has not been deemed necessary to require any money deposit as an evidence of good faith, it being assumed that no one will enter a vehicle unless he fully intends to compete.—Chicago Times-Herald.

TEACHER, DO YOU WHIP?

I do permit us to offer two suggestions; they will do no harm, as you are not obliged to accept them:

1. Don't keep the switch in the school-room. Let the rod grow; when needed you can send for it, and thus have time to think. A rod lying within the Teachers' reach is a sort of dare, and children have been taught not to take a dare.
2. Don't whip in the presence of the school. Perhaps the offender must be whipped, but the school should be spared the humiliation of witnessing the infliction. It shocks the school to see a pupil whipped, for whipping is a fight—prolonged, a necessary fight, but a fight none the less. Ninety-nine whippings in every one hundred administered publicly cause the school to sympathize with the pupil and against the Teacher, whatever the offense. Could there be a better reason for privacy?—Southern School.

THE AUTHOR ONCE TAUGHT IN MADISON COUNTY.

Miss Dolly Higbee once taught school in this county and there are those who may be interested in the subject from the Louisville Times:

Mrs. Dolly Higbee Goppert's new story "In Ze Studio, an Idyl of the Household," is just out, and will prove of interest to Louisville people, some of whom figure in the romance, while others are acquainted with the characters starred in the plot. It is a newspaper story, throughout, written from a society column standpoint, and the author confesses that she retired from the business after nine years of work, weary of the conviction that she came into this wicked world for the express purpose of lying about people in print. She goes on to state that, although she had heard much of a certain sculptor and his wife who had come to make their home in Louisville, she kept away from them for a long time, fearing that they belonged to the army of the deserving incapables, who, like the poor, are always with us.

Finally she goes to the studio, and it is there that the real fun and pathos of the story begin. The sculptor in question is Carl Rohl Smith, who, with his beautiful wife once occupied a studio in the Delaney building. Mr. Smith made a bas-relief portrait of the Goppert at that time, but it was accidentally broken when his atelier was dismantled. Mrs. Goppert tells the story very gracefully and adds that this love romance of the sculptor and his wife was not something somebody had written to sell to an editor, then able "for it was real. I have seen it, and it lived my soul."

I am glad to read pleasant things of our brilliant ex-Louisvillian, but, come now, is it not a trifle unkind in Mrs. Goppert to turn Stee's evidence on the literary convicts who are present sentenced to the pen?

ANCIENT HIGHWAYS.

Curiously enough, the earliest record of the existence of pavements harks back through the dim lights of antiquity to the empires of two queens—Sennacherib, king of Assyria, and Dido, the Carthaginian princess who founded the Carthaginian empire. According to the records of Valerius Maximus the paved highways throughout the realm of Sennacherib were the first in use, but Sennacherib claims that the Carthaginians enjoyed the initial pavements of the world.

It is certain that in the later the Romans derived their knowledge of the importance of good roads, for at a time when the Roman kingdom had not yet given promise of its future greatness as an empire the people of Dido's realm were luxuriating in marble mosaics for floors of dwellings, and stronger materials were employed by them for the highways of commerce, when the Carthaginians were the most important commercial nation in the world.

But the Apian way of Appian Claudius, the worn blocks of lava in the streets of Jerusalem and Pompeii, over which the thousands of chariots rolled in the past, all these and other Egyptian, African, or Asiatic highways are not to be compared for structure or durability to the great roads of the Incas. These tremendous canyons, built for the passage of imperial armies from end to end of the realm, constructed in the face of Nature's mightiest protests, bridging chasms, joining mountains, tunneling through their hearts, built from depth to height by sheer force of engineering skill, indicate by their colossal masonry today that the Children of the Sun were past-masters of the art of high-road construction. Mighty records of a race as these Incas are, what other ancient records might not have been preserved had the quipus only been supplanted by the alphabet at a time when the Incas were a dominant race and had a history to bequeath to coming generations? Had it been possible to preserve the historical coins, medals, and bits of string into which the records of the great South American nation were twisted with calligraphic meaning, we might be able to determine beyond question that at a time when Frenchmen and Englishmen were wallowing through next to impassable bogs, the practical perfection of Inca highways was further embellished by the flowering of the great American trees.

EGGS AND FRUIT IN A CAVE.

Briggs Cave in Elmon County has changed hands. It has been sold to California parties. The cave was formerly owned by Capt. J. C. Briggs, of Russellville, and the temperature in it is so low all the year round that fruits can be preserved for years in their natural state. The California parties will ship fruit to the cave by the car load and preserve it until winter, when it will demand a much higher price.

The gentleman who closed the deal will also use the cave for another purpose. He has invented a method of preserving eggs, and will buy up during the summer season immense quantities of eggs and store them away in the cave until winter. He went from California to New York to make arrangements for storing his eggs, but the best he could do was to resort to cold storage. This was objectionable for the reason that it froze the eggs and made them liable to decay in a very short time after being taken out of the storage. With his process for preserving them he can keep them in the cave until their being frozen, and when his eggs are taken out in the winter to be marketed they will be in as perfect condition as when put in the cave.—Times.

THE MORNING COMETH.

We believe that the light is dawning for the South, for merchants as well as for farmers, for the professional as well as the working man. This belief is based principally upon two things, viz: The disposition of capital to seek southern investment and the more rational and conservative methods adopted by southern farmers in raising their farm supplies at home, upon the farm.

We have repeatedly called attention to the southward movement of investment and enterprise and have on several occasions pointed out the enormous savings realized in home-made bread and meat. Hitherto the proceeds of the cotton crop of the South have been sent to the West for the things consumed in making the crop; now these things being made at home, the South will receive cash for its great staple and this cash will be utilized in every kind of development.

The various imitations of the original M. A. Theford & Co's Liver Medicine Black-Draught live for a time, quarrel among themselves and pass into oblivion. For more than half a century this reliable remedy has gone up and up, and now stands the acknowledged superior of any vegetable liver medicine made.

I have been using Theford's Black-Draught for twelve or fifteen years. It has saved me a good many dollars in doctor's bills, and my family a great deal of sickness.

Beware of Quaints for Catarrh That Contain Mercury.

As mercury will surely destroy the sense of mind and completely derange the muscular system when entering it through the mucous surfaces, such caution should never be used except on prescription from reputable physicians, as the damage they will do is ten fold to the good you can possibly derive from them. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, contains no mercury, and is internally acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. 40 YEARS THE STANDARD.

SUSAN B. ANTHONY RETIRES.

The announcement that Susan B. Anthony has delivered her last public address and has decided to go into retirement for the purpose of compiling the memoirs of her forty years' crusade for the emancipation of woman will be received with keen regret by thousands who have delighted to listen upon more than one occasion to this matchless champion of woman's rights. Having reached the middle of her seventieth year, she feels that her work on earth is finished, and all she asks is that she may be permitted to commit the written record of her forty years of unflinching endeavor to the intelligent consideration of a posterity that is certain to reap the fruits of an advanced and liberated womanhood.

Miss Anthony is in many respects the most remarkable woman of her time. As the close of the century draws near she can survey the work of her life with complacent satisfaction, for, although not all the reforms to which she consecrated the energies of a well-trained mind have been achieved, there has come to the knowledge of our generation a new political possibility for woman that transcends the dreams of her most enthusiastic admirers. Indeed, the new woman of today—not the blooming purveyor of street slang or the renegade from domestic duty, but the new woman who has learned to escape an unhappy matrimonial alliance, to find in the opportunity to enter the industries or professions—owes a great debt to Miss Anthony. She has reformed her methods and scorned her old-fashioned methods and scorned her old-fashioned methods and scorned her old-fashioned methods.

Miss Anthony is no pliant ladder. She came from fine old Yankee stock. She was educated by strict teachers, and her subsequent career as teacher in the schools of New York state gave her a well-disciplined mind for the work to which she was prominent among the agitators for the abolition of slavery, and her voice was also raised in favor of the rights of the colored people and of the rights of the state and congressional elections in Rochester in 1872 to test the application of the fourteenth and fifteenth amendments of the United States constitution, and was fined, but, in accordance with her defiant declaration, she never paid the penalty.

Revealed, jeered at, and lampooned by the press and treated with cold and disdainful indifference by many of her own sex, she waged her campaign with indomitable courage against man odds. She can now enter into the retirement which she has so richly earned with the comforting solace that those who derided her methods and questioned her motives are compelled by the political events

A GIGANTIC MAP.

The great on-line survey map of England, containing over 108,000 sheets, and costing, during the last twenty years, about $8,000,000 a year is nearly completed. The scales vary from ten and twelve feet to the mile for the towns, through twenty-five inches, six inches, one inch, one-quarter of an inch, and one-tenth of an inch to the mile. The details are so minute that "the twenty-five and six-inch maps show every hedge, fence, ditch, wall, building, and even every isolated tree in the country. The twenty-five inch map shows in color the material of which every part of a building is constructed. The plans show not only the exact shape of every building, but every porch, area, dooryard, lamp-post, railway and fire plug."—Southern School.

A GREAT STEAMSHIP.

The twin screw White Star steamship, George, Captain Smith, finished her maiden trip to this port, August 26. She is the largest freighter in the world, and probably the swiftest, being able to make thirteen and a half knots an hour. She was built at Belfast by Harland & Wolff and measures 10,077 tons. She is 328 feet long, 40 feet beam, and 40 feet deep. When laden to her capacity she will draw about 28 feet. She can carry 15,000 tons of dead weight. She has 1,000 quarters of live stock, and 3,000 quarters of live stock in her refrigerated compartments. When the George sails, she will take 1,000 tons of general merchandise, 1,000 tons of cattle, and 2,000 sheep.—Scientific American.

PROPERLY SIZES UP THE SITUATION.

The Philadelphia Record estimates that it costs $2,000,000 to convert a Chinaman to the Christian religion, and another authority has it that no Chinaman has yet been converted to that faith, notwithstanding the vast sums devoted to missionaries in China. There are plenty of Caucasian heathens in every one of our large cities just as sorely in need of conversion as the Chinese, and as a matter of economy there would be millions in it.—Louisville Times.

The Shakers have made a great hit. Their Digestive Cordial is said to be the most successful remedy for stomach troubles ever introduced. It immediately relieves all pain and distress after eating, builds up the feeble system and makes the weak strong.

The fact is, foods properly digested are better than so-called tonics. The Cordial not only contains food already digested but is digested of other foods. Food that is not digested does more harm than good. People who use the Cordial insure the digestion of what food they eat and in this way get the benefit of it and grow strong.

The little pamphlet to which the Shakers have sent to the druggists for free distribution, contains much interesting information on the subject of dyspepsia.

Laxol is not a mixture of drugs. It is nothing but Castor Oil made palatable.

The Free Pike Petition

Squire J. S. Cyle presented to County Judge Burnam a lengthy petition asking the Court to submit to a vote of the people at the November election the question of free pike. County Attorney Cobb denounced the petition on the ground that under Section 4742, under which Cyle was proceeding, the County Judge could only appropriate "any funds in the County—may now or hereafter it may hereafter acquire"—but that section of the law, a vote might have been had, but he thinks that has will need amendment.
The matter as it may, the question cannot now come before the people at the polls until November of next year.

How to Use the Richmond Telephone.

Entirely too many people don't know how to use the telephone. They ring the bell once, then hang up, and then say, "Hello, hello, Central," and if by chance they hear Central's response, they shout, "Central, give me No. 455, please, Wilson and Brown's shoe shop, I want to speak to them a moment." Now, all this is unnecessary, except the number. In fact it is something useless, for it consumes time, tries the central office and is liable to cause mistakes.

The Government Building.

The patient citizens of Richmond have had on their hands a Government Building for the past two years, and from present indications the longest construction now having will have passed over the "divide" before its completion. We suppose, however, that is none of our business. But what we are kicking about is all what the average citizen doesn't like is the unsightly fence erected in front of the building, which compels all pedestrians to wade out in the mud, near the middle of the street to get by it. Why can't the fence be moved out of the pavement and nearer "over the rock pile," and the pavement be repaired so people can pass with some little convenience. It is not such a great extra privilege, and should the government have any more than individuals?

Back From Europe.

Mr. Frank Swope and Dr. John Bar-bour arrived home yesterday after a two-months' trip through Europe. These two young men are very popular in Louisville society, and their friends are glad to welcome them home.
Although they were gone only two months, they claim to have seen a great deal of the European continent. They landed in Holland, and from there took their bicycles and wheeled through Holland, Belgium, Germany, Austria, Switzerland, Italy and France. In all they traveled 2,115 miles on their wheels. The greatest mileage made during one day was 102 miles.
They say it is the only way to see Europe satisfactorily, and are loud in their praise of European roads. They were not encumbered with baggage, as they carried with a celluloid collar and a tooth brush.
Each of these gentlemen brought back a great many souvenirs, which their friends can have for the asking.—Louis-ville Commercial, 19th.

Death of An Aged Lady

Mrs. Maria Brown Smith died at her home in Richmond on Saturday, Sept. 21st, 1905, aged 81 years. Buried in the cemetery, Monday.
Mrs. Smith was born in Gloucester county, England, the daughter of John Brown. In 1816, she removed with her parents to Richmond, landing at Baltimore, and coming by wagon to Pittsburg by flatboat to Meyersville and by wagon via Blue Licks and Booneborough to Richmond. Her uncle Wm. Brown had preceded them by several years and with Joseph Lees built a spinning factory in Richmond, one of the pioneer concerns of the West. Another uncle was killed at Waterloo.
In 1831 deceased married Solomon Smith, a prominent merchant, also a native of England, had removed to Fayette county, thence to Richmond. He died many years ago. Mrs. Smith was a consistent member of the Christian church, a most amiable woman, kind neighbor and indulgent mother. She retained her mental faculties to the last, and her health was reasonably good till recently. Her children are W. B. Smith, lawyer, Thomas J. Smith, retired merchant, and Mrs. Curtis F. Mohlerly.

To the Democrats of Madison county:

The time has arrived when we should begin to organize for an aggressive and successful campaign in behalf of our nominees. Experience has demonstrated that the successful organization can be accomplished through the medium of Democratic clubs operating in conjunction with the county committee.
The county committee is called to meet at the Court House in Richmond, at 2 o'clock, p. m. Saturday, Sept. 25th, and each member is specially invited to attend. The president of the various Democratic clubs throughout the county are requested to call their clubs to meet at their usual meeting places at 7 o'clock, p. m. Saturday, Sept. 25th, or such other time as may be most convenient, and are also requested to organize clubs in every voting precinct in the county. All Democrats are invited and expected to be in this work.
The approaching election is of universal importance to the Democrats of the county and the State. The Republican party from its organization to this hour has been the inveterate enemy of the South and Southern people. That party has not hesitated to disregard the Federal constitution in its attempt to degrade and impoverish the South. The attempt of the Republican party to govern the Southern States has resulted in corruption lawlessness and complete failure and because of the character of the constituency of the Republican party in Kentucky the same evils would flow from this according to this State. The Republican candidates, local and state, have supported and endorsed their party in its attitude toward and its government in the South. The Democratic party is present responsible for the administration of the government both in state and nation and invite joint debates between the candidates of the parties, having nothing to fear from the fullest investigation and discussion before an intelligent public. The Republican candidates have refused joint discussions and have won this contest by some secret misrepresentation.
To avert the disasters which would follow Republican ascendancy in this county and state we call upon all Democrats to assist and take an interest in the present campaign. There is no more doubt as to the result of the contest in this county, senatorial district and state.
By order of the county committee, J. W. Bates, Chairman.
